

The conference schedule and programme overview for the upcoming DH 2012 at Hamburg University are now available at: www.dh2012.uni-hamburg.de/conference/programme/

From 16 to 22 July a total of 198 workshops, panels, papers and poster presentations have been scheduled - it's truly bound to be a conference that lives up to its motto, "Digital Diversity - Cultures, Languages, Methods"!

Registration for the conference and social events will open next week and will be announced separately.

Information on accommodation options, a hotel booking facility as well as general travel advice are already available at: www.dh2012.uni-hamburg.de/

Abstracts for all scheduled events and papers will become available by May.
