

DARIAH is mentioned in a recent New York Times piece entitled Humanities Scholars Embrace Digital Technology. The article, which focuses mainly on developments in the US, discusses the general trend in humanities research towards increasing reliance on digital methods and techniques. DARIAH is named, and linked to from the article, as a European project which is supporting such work.

Read the entire article here